Golden Cross Hotel Bromsgrove

The present Golden Cross was built in 1932. A century earlier, its predecessor was described as a 'royal and commercial hotel' and 'posting house', with carriages for hire. During the 19th century, it was the Conservative Party election headquarters. During the 1859 by-election, there was a pitched battle outside the hotel between conservative-supporting older boys from Bromsgrove School and hundreds of voteless locals. Order was eventually restored by a 150-strong cavalry force.
