FOOD

Main menu 11.30am – 11pm. Children's menu available.

A local landmark since early Victorian times, this two-storey building was constructed shortly after the 1850 arrival of the Great Northern Railway line. The Railway Bell helped to refresh travellers using the new railway station, built close by. Barnet station, as it was then called, stood in what had been mostly meadowland, about a mile from the centre of High Barnet. The area around the railway station was soon developed and, in 1884, the station was renamed New Barnet.
